THE PARISH SCHOOL

Albert Bice on Faine in Harper's Weekly.
Two little nuns are teaching school,
Near by, on Coxy street;
I pass each moraing, as a rule,
And now and then we meet.

The humble house is small and low; Its walls are rude and bare; And yet I loiter by, for, oh. It seems so peaceful there!

I never liked to go to school; I always rather play: I hated any kind of rule, And sometimes ran away.

But when I pass that little door, And breath that holy air, I want to be a boy once more, And learn my lessons there.

Oh, little nuns, with wimples white, And hearts of purest gold. My soul is troubled sore to-night, My heart is growing cold.

Oh, little nuns of sable dress, and souls of drifting snow, Teach me the way of righteousness, And I can learn, I know.

NEW BASE BALL RULES.

The Pitcher's Position and Bunt Hit. What They Mean to the Game.

New York Press, That the pitching distance will be increased is almost an assured fact, judging by the discussions in favor of the change at the League meeting in Chicago and the make-up of the com-mittee on playing rules. This committee consists of Messrs. Brush, of Cincinnati, Yon der Horst, of Baltimore, and Byrne, of Brooklyn. The latter is the only member of the committee who is at all capable of revising the rules, and only member of the committee who is at all capable of revising the rules, and the whole matter will necessarily rest on his shoulders.

The public has evidently become tired of the games where one or two runs constitute the score. Pitchers' contests, scientifically, are all right, and may please a few cranks, but there is no doubt that the majority of the base ball cranks of to-day want a return to the old time games when heavy hitting predominated. The pitcher has become altogether too much of a power in the game. The public demands that the other players should be in the game a little bit, and the public demands should be satisfied. The pitcher has been the only man in a game of ball for almost ten years. He has got most of the glory, and generally has carried away most of the money.

No halfway measures should be adopted. Moving the ritcher has keen ly five

No halfway measures should be adopted. Moving the pitcher back only five feet will not increase the batting, for which object the change is intended. which object the change is intended. Five feet would not affect any pitcher's offectiveness to any great extent. The pitcher must be far enough away from the batter to enable the latter to fairly gauge the delivery. With the cannon ball speed with which the majority of the star twirlers of the day now burl the ball over the plate it is almost a worder so many safe hits are made.

the ball over the plate it is almost a wonder so many safe hits are made.

The proper place to put the pitcher is in the center of the diamond, enlarged as proposed. Nearly every pitcher in the country is making a howl against the change, and it is perfectly natural that they should. It means agreat deal to some of them. The extra wear and tear on their salary arms will be enormous, and many a crack of last year will be relegated to the rear. To counteract this, however, many a back number will be unearthed, and some of the old-timers may possibly be on the top wave of popularity again. Exra Sutton, Jim White, Jack Rowe, Jack Nelson and others as old are among the possibiliothers as old are among the possibilities.

With the diamond enlarged as pro With the diamond enlarged as proposed the bunt hit will be altogether too easy of accomplishment, and on that account should be abolished. It will eliminate from the game one of its prettiest and most scientific plays, but when it becomes so simple that a child can do it then it ceases to be scientific and becomes monotonous. With the pitcher back in the centre of the diamond and the third baseman three feet mond and the third baseman three feet further away than now even Anson could make a bunt and beat it to first nearly every time.

The New York club will not suffer much by the increased distance which the pitcher will have to deliver the ball. Rusie and Grane are cannon ball twirlers, and could pitch the ball from centre field if necessary.

WINTER CARE OF CHILDREN. The Value of Hardening Them to the Season by Cold Ablations, It is agreed that the health of children is best guarded and preserved by rendering them hardened against cold and the diseases resulting from cold. This is believed by many to be best effected by accustoming the child to cold water, so that he will be indifferent to the changes of temperature.

That this should be effective cold ablutions must be made a daily practice, for the system falls back into its sensi-tive condition as soon as they are discontinued.

The mortality of children reaches a maximum twice a year; in summer, when multitudes die of diarrhea, mostly when multitudes die of diarrhea, mostly in the poor quarters of large cities; again in winter, when they succumb to catarrhs and inflammations of the respiratory organs—fatalities more apt to happen to the delicate children of the richer class.

An idea prevails that winter weather is beneficial to young children.

If the temporarium he helow freezing.

If the temperature be below freezing point the more dangerous it is for the child's health the colder and dryer the air gets, no matter whether the skin is kept warm or not; the cold, dry air irritates the respiratory organs and is apt to cause inflammation. This is the more dangerous the younger the child is. Cold, damp weather, with or with-outrain, when the temperature is above freezing point, is much less to be feared if the child be sufficiently well wrapped.

Fog, on the contrary, is not to be trusted, and the dauger from it increases with the severity of the cold. It is not sufficient then for a child to be well wrapped; precautions must be taken that it does not breathe the air without its being previously warmed. This is effected by covering the child's head, leaving a good space for nose and mouth, over which a thick veil is fastened.

In mild, frosty weather children old enough to run about can be sent out for a short time. At a temperature of 10 degrees Celcius chiidren under 6 should not be allowed out. A snowfall, if the temperature is not low, is not harmful for a child well wrapped. The hardening process by means of water should begin when the child is able to run about; not with cold baths, but with cold ablutions of certain parts of the body with water that has stood of the body with water that has stood twelve or twenty-four hours in the room, but to which no warm water has been added. (These hardening ablu-tions are never to be begun except in summer, and with infants it is all out of the question.)

of the question.)
The cold ablutions should begin with the hands and arms, then the face. On another day the fat and legs may be laved. Later the neck and breast of the body can be similarly subjected. Not body can be similarly subjected. Not until the age of six are the cold ablations to be applied simultaneously to the whole body.

Any kind of catarrh, even a simple feverless cold, should forbid the continuation of the hardening ablutions. Nor should they ever be given within three hours after a meal.

In winter the child must be kept near the stove during the process, and stand in a wooden tub with warm water up to the ankles. The washing and drying should be done as regular as possible.

Living rooms must not be overheated, 20 degrees Celeius is about the right warmth; for older children 18 degrees is sufficient. To thrive well in this temperature they must be warmly dressed.

THE PRINCESS ANGELINE, She Is the Daughter of Chief Seattle,

Over 100 Years Old.
Kansas City Times.

A notable personage, frequently pointed out to newcomers and strangers at Seattle, Wash., is a real, live American princess. She is often seen seated on the sidewalk in an old, faded catico dress and a common woolen shawl wrapped about her shoulders. This is Princess Angeline, the daughter of Chief Seattle. She is very well treated by the older residents, and has only to ask them for anything she may want and it is given to her. This is all ow-ing to the fact that at an early day in the history of that part of the country, ing to the inet that an early day in the history of that part of the country, when the people were in constant danger from attacks of hostile tribes of Indians, she, at a great personal danger to herself and after a long journey, came into a white settlement and warned the "pale face" of a very formidable threatened attack of the Indians, and by her timely aid saved the entire settlement, thus preserving their homes from destruction and their wives and children from captivity and massacre. Her father, Seattle, was very kind and true in his friendship for the white race who had made their homes in the region of Puget Sound, sheltered by the snow capped mountain heights, and now the grateful people have erected a monument to his memory upon his grave.

Well may the inhabitants of Seattle pay the Princess Angeline all honor for the services she rendered, for she has become a part of the history of their country, even if, as she sits by the roadside with her little short stemmed leads rise held tight beyond her teath. black pipe held tight beneath her teeth, her old woolen shawl is her only "royal mantle" by day and her blanket by night.

It is not known just how old Princess Angeline is, but that she has passed the century mark is beyond a doubt.

The Use and Abuse of Whiskey.

This subject could be dwelt upon to a considerable length, and yet much would remain untold, but all agree that would remain untold, but all agree that the use, the proper use of pure rye whiskey is an absolute necessity, especially so now, when nature insists upon being stimulated. All regular physicians prescribe rye whiskey, and justly claim that Klein's Silver Age and Duquesne Whiskies are most reliable. They do this not only because they have tried them but because the leading hospitals use them—find them the best stimulants in the world. Silver Age sells for $1.50 and Duquesne for $1.25 per full quart. For sale by all dealers per full quart. For sale by all dealers and druggists. Ask for them or send to Max Klein,

THE COTTON MARKET. A Rally After the Decline-Still Adhering to the Low Crop Estimate.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

New York, Dec. 5.—To-day's cotton market opened at a decline of twenty to thirty points as compared with Saturday's cloding, the result of weak Liverpool cables and a lack of confidence in the manipulation recently manifested by southern traders, which is presumed to be partially for Liverpool account. Covering of shorts and a better demand caused the market to rally afterwards, and notwithstanding the unestakes regarding the anti-option bill, which rended to unsottle prices at intervals during the day, together with reports of weaker Liverpool closing cables, the market closed steady at an advance of five to six points from opening prices.

The receipts still continue liberal and the crop movement to date inclicates an amount in proportion to that of former years for the same period. In view of present conditions we still adhere to our low crop estimates and do not think it will exceed sixty-five hundred thousand. Our Dallas correspondent wires us as follows: "Fine picking weather, good roads and high prices have about exhausted farmer's holdings." Total sales of cotton to-day, 348,100 bates.

Breadstuff and Provisions.

Breadstuff; and Provisions.

Chicago. Dec. 5.—Everything in the principal speculative markets was higher to-day, provisions decidedly so, and wheat considering the bearish news from Europe and the northwest surprisingly so. Regarding the latter it is said that Cudahy and Wright have started a deal in it under almost precisely similar conditions to the one they have in provisions. The advance in wheat was practically continuous. With morthwest the market has a momentary apasm of weakness at the start, but it was soon found that there were good buying orders in the market, and that there was little for sale and prices had a quick rally. Brokers, supposed to be acting for Cudahy, were found to be taking all the uneasy and began to cover early, but finally improved a trifle in sympathy with the better feeling. Onto quick.
